

TIR-Expanded Applications Workshop

consolidates knowledge and skills gained in the first workshop and goes on from there to add an array of new tools to the facilitator's repertoire. New methods taught in this workshop will benefit a wide range of clients, from those who are fragile/low ego strength to very high-functioning people.

The new techniques learned in this workshop can be used to prepare a client for TIR, to build up ego strength (ability to face life) and develop the client's capacity to successfully address specific areas of life. These techniques also allow a practitioner to write a case plan that is more varied and interesting to a client than one containing only TIR and Unblocking. In addition to providing new tools, this workshop expands the use of TIR itself to fit more situations.

The TIR – Expanded Applications Workshop results in greatly increased confidence and certainty in using TIR and related techniques. It provides the practitioner with the ability to address and resolve a much wider range of human difficulties and preoccupations, including distractions that make it hard for the client to settle comfortably into the work of the session.

This workshop is appropriate for all levels of practicing social workers, psychologists, therapists, counselors, clergy, and critical incident stress debriefers.

TIR is appropriate for use by:

- Practitioners who want to get the maximum use from TIR
- Practitioners interested in working with issues such as relationships and self-esteem, in addition to trauma work
- Practitioners wanting to learn a simple but elegant method of case planning to produced enhanced results.

Objectives:

As demonstrated through ~~examination and supervised activities~~ and examination, the student will be able to:

- ~~Describe-Apply~~ appropriate techniques to prepare a client who is not yet ready for TIR
- ~~Demonstrate Analyze understanding of~~ the theory and practice of remedial techniques
- Demonstrate ability to create a basic case plan using the techniques learned to this point

Also Learn to:

- ~~The application of Apply~~ TIR to specialized circumstances such as addiction and anxiety about future events
